Call Parley On 9 Highway Plans

GLENDALE TO BENEFIT BY PROPOSED PROJECTS

Millions to Be Expended on Arterial Development In This City's Vicinity

Nine major highway plans, vitally affecting the future of Glendale and costing in the aggregate millions of dollars, are in process of development by the city of Los Angeles, according to Chairman T. W. Watson of the City Planning commission.

These plans will benefit Glendale in direct proportion to the advantage this city takes of them in developing its own street system, Mr. Watson holds.

Plan Conference

It is for this reason that he has induced Harland Bartholomew, a member of the consulting board of the Los Angeles City and County Planning commission, to visit Glendale Thursday afternoon of this week and consult with the City Council, Chamber of Commerce directors and members of the City Planning commission, on the best method of taking full advantage of the millions spent by Los Angeles in this vicinity for arterial highway development.

The nine projects under way by the city of Los Angeles, and that vitally affect the future development of Glendale, may be summarized as follows:

1. Riverside drive, to extend from North Broadway at Elysian park and around the brow of the hills, following the west bank of the Los Angeles river past Griffith park and taking the general course of this river through the San Fernando valley, 200 feet wide its entire length.
2. Flushing street, to extend through the Elysian park hills by means of tunnels to Riverside drive at Dayton street, which will give Glendale traffic another direct entrance to the Los Angeles business district.
3. Truck speedway, to follow the general line of the Los Angeles river on the east bank, from Burbank to the Los Angeles harbor, opening up a new industrial area in Glendale.
4. Alhambra street, leading south from Riverside drive, connecting with Glendale boulevard at Edendale.
5. Fletcher avenue, leading from San Fernando road and connecting with the truck highway and Riverside drive to Glendale boulevard.
6. New bridges over the Los Angeles river and the opening of the west roadway of this boulevard between Riverside drive and the Southern Pacific tracks, more than doubling its present capacity.
7. Silver Lake parkway to extend from Riverside drive, just north of Glendale boulevard, past Silver Lake in a southerly direction.

Mrs. Cameron Thom Dies In Los Angeles

Mrs. Cameron Erskine Thom, pioneer resident of Glendale, passed away at the family home in Los Angeles, 2070 West Adams street, Monday night, November 17, 1924, at 8 o'clock after an illness of several weeks' duration, with her three sons at her bedside. Her daughter, wife of Sir Arthur Collins, actor-manager of England, is speeding to Los Angeles from London, having been notified a week ago of her mother's illness.

As state regent of the D. A. R. and member of the Friday Morning, Ebbl and other clubs, including numerous country clubs, Mrs. Thom was always the confidante of the younger matrons and took great joy in many philanthropies, as well as religious work. She was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church and Bishop William Bertrand Stevens, coadjutor of the Los Angeles diocese, will officiate at funeral services to be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the family residence.

Mrs. Thom was identified with the early history of Glendale by her residence at a country estate here, where the children were raised and attended school. The landed interests of her husband

American Railroads Set Mark Handling Record Freightage

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—In successfully handling this year without car shortage or congestion the enormous freight traffic of the country the American railroads completely shattered seven of their best previous records of this year, according to the report of the car service division of the American Railway association, submitted at a meeting here today of the board of directors of that association.

Since January 1, the report said, the railroads have recorded the heaviest loadings of commodities in box cars of any similar period on record. All previous grain loading records were broken on virtually all western lines, as also were the records at terminal markets. There has been no accumulation of traffic or congestion during 1924 chargeable to railroad disability and no general orders requiring a movement of cars in volume from one section of the country to another.

ONE DEAD AND SIX INJURED BY FLAMES

Atlantic City Fire Loss Is $800,000; Captain of Department Hero

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 18.—One life was lost and property damage in excess of $800,000 was done by fire which destroyed two hotels, damaged the Hotel Wiltshire and the Casino, on steel pier here, and threatened the entire boardwalk, a checkup today showed. Six persons, five of them firemen, were injured.

James Bennett, 80, of the Bronx, was trapped in his room at the Bothwell hotel and in his attempt to escape, suffered fatal injuries. "A woman thought to have perished in the flames after she was seen at a fifth story window, later was found in the hospital, suffering from fractures of both legs. She fell down a flight of steps. The cause of the fire was not determined. A boiler explosion, it was reported, was responsible.

Fireman Is Hero

Captain Charles McMenamis, of the local fire department, was a hero. Four times he carried guests to safety. On his fifth trip up a ladder he reeled and fell back into the arms of one of his men, overcome by smoke. Later, however, he was revived.

For three hours firemen, their faces encrusted with ice, and their bodies numb with cold, hurled powerful streams from steaming nozzles upon the flames. Temperature of 15 degrees above zero and a penetrating wind, which fortunately blew from the northwest toward the boardwalk and away from a group of hotels in the square, made their work doubly difficult.

This community will be a better community when it has laid an obligation on the shoulders of all its people, he said. Rev. Cole urged in conclusion, that everyone give to the chest until it hurts.

Total Subscribed $9,540

S. C. Height, organizer of the chest campaign, reminded the workers of a number of rules and regulations. He urged continuation of the drive to a successful conclusion.

The total amount subscribed to the chest since the reports made at noon yesterday, was given as $5,597. This aggregates a total of $9,540 for the drive to date.

Prominent Pioneer

The name of Thom is prominently written in the history of Southern California for Mrs. Thom's late husband crossed the plains in 1849 as a youth, and in later years invested with wisdom and foresight in real estate, which brought him an active share in the development and growth of the state of California, particularly the southern part.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the principals and their managers in the Fred Fulton-Tony Fuente bout here last night and the quartet will be jailed as soon as apprehended. District Attorney Asa Keyes declared today.

Keyes said the men would be held for conducting a prize fight as a result of his investigation of a bout at the Culver City American Legion arena in which Fulton was accused of taking a "fake flop."

To Arrest Principals

The warrants called for the arrest of Fred Fulton and his manager, Jack Duddy, both of St. Paul, Minn., and Tony Fuente and his manager, Fred (Windy) Winsor of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"I didn't know anything about the reported 'frameup,'" Winsor said in a statement. "Fuente and myself were certainly not in on any plans Fulton had to do a flop. Fulton looked kind of dopey or something."

Blair reiterated this warning to newspapers against the publication of returns, calling attention to provisions of the law prohibiting such publication.

While Blair was sending out his instructions, Attorney-General Stone was completing preparations for filing charges against newspapers for violation of the publication restriction. It was expected the action against newspapers would be filed shortly.

RAIL STOCKS CONTINUE TO JUMP

Upward Trend Seen as Heavy Buying Demands Felt on Wall Street Exchange

By W. S. COUSINS

For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—All other developments in the stock market today were overshadowed by the violent forward movement of the railroad stocks in response to as heavy a buying demand as has been seen since the present movement began on the day after election. Prices began to climb early.

Recent developments in the transportation industry have been of a caliber to attract a large investment and speculative following. Seven transportation records were shattered this year, according to the report of the car service bureau of the American Railway association today. Meetings are being held in New York and elsewhere designed to link up the railroad lines into a comprehensive system which will yield profit to the stockholders as well as serve the needs of a growing national industry.

So many of the railroads have "made good" the expectations of speculators is being placed on the dividend basis this year and it was not difficult for the speculative district to believe that Washash, Katy, Missouri Pacific, Frisco common and perhaps one or two others will be in the dividend column before many months have elapsed. A few others, like Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Atchafson, New York Central and Southern Pacific, are earning well beyond dividend requirements and larger disbursements to stockholders are expected in time.

Industries Strong

Buying extended to every section of the railroad list today as gains of 1 to 3 points were registered in Union Pacific, Great Northern Preferred, Northern Pacific, Washash common and preferred, B. & O. and many others. Prices in a number of these stocks today were the highest in ten or twelve years.

Forward movements in industrial and specialty stocks continued. Consolidated Gas led the rally in public utilities; Radio corporation gained four points; Mack Trucks and the Maxwell stocks pushed forward to new high levels; Studebaker was strong and active. The shipping,

LONE PINE, Cal., Nov. 18.—Seizure of the Los Angeles aqueduct by Owens valley raiders took on a holiday air today when plans were launched for a barbecue to be held at the head gates site of the water canal this afternoon.

Quiet prevailed at the militant camp and today's activities in the "Valley of Broken Hearts" were marked by scenes usually attendant at a farmers' picnic, as men and women moved among the trees and rocks preparing food for the afternoon entertainment.

Guards, with no show of arms, paced the flood gates sites and the water of Los Angeles rushed merrily into the Owens river. Here and there a checker board was in evidence as men off guard duty passed the time.

The whole countryside has been invited to the feast, including members of a motion picture company on location nearby.

30 ARRESTED RESULT OF MILK WAR

Prisoners Are Accused of Attempting to Prevent Delivery to Cities

OAKLAND, Nov. 18.—Arrest of thirty men charged with attempting to prevent milk trucks moving into Oakland and other east bay cities early today featured the third day of Oakland's "milk strike."

Following reports that milk "hijackers" were cruising the highways and firing upon milk trucks endeavoring to enter the city, Sheriff Grant Barnes with several armed deputies patrolled the highways leading into the San Joaquin valley with the result that thirty arrests were made near Tracy.

Numerous acts of violence were reported to the sheriff's office. Oakland's milk supply was cut to approximately 15 per cent. Berkeley 40 per cent, and Alameda practically shut off from all supplies by the strike so far. The farmers ask 29 cents a gallon for milk.

PROSECUTOR DEMANDING CRIMINAL HEARING

Raiders May Get Terms In Prison If Convicted of Attack on Aqueduct

BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Arrest of the 400 men who seized the Los Angeles aqueduct at Lone Pine, Cal., will be demanded of Inyo county authorities tomorrow on charges that they violated the court injunction restraining them from interfering with this city's water supply, city officials announced here late today.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Five score defiant Owens valley residents today maintained a quiet but effective guard over the escaping waters of the Los Angeles aqueduct near Lone Pine, Cal., while Sheriff C. C. Collins of Inyo county, in desperation over his inability to handle the situation, renewed his appeal to Governor F. W. Richardson for state troops.

At the same time District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles demanded criminal trials for members of the band of business and professional men, ranchers and cowboys who early Sunday seized the head gates of the aqueduct and diverted thousands of feet of water to the Owens river.

"We'll stay right here until dragged out and maybe we can't be dragged," was the answer of the leaders of the militant Owens valley ranchers to a temporary injunction issued by Superior Judge George Dehy of Independence, county seat of Inyo county, restraining them from interfering with the aqueduct and Los Angeles' water supply.

Only the mobilization of National Guardsmen will bring an end to the organized effort to force a settlement of the long fight between this city and the ranchers over the valley's water rights, according to information received from the Inyo county seat.

A conference of aqueduct employees was to be held here today under the leadership of Edward H. Leahy, city agent in the Owens district, and Claude Van Norman, aqueduct maintenance engineer. The purpose of the conference was not disclosed.

Governor Richardson this morning had Sheriff Collins' telegram and call for troops on his desk and was expected to make a reply to it during the day.

The sheriff's telegram to the governor follows:

"Troops are required immediately to end situation which exists here. I again appeal for

AMERICANIZATION IS PART OF WORK

Instructors In Schools In Big Role Of Showing Foreigners How

By PAULINE MILLER
Any large nation of the world today has many problems facing it. America is no exception and among these problems is Americanization. Just how important it is, is shown in the fact that every year one week is set aside and called "Americanization Week." At no other time of the year is very much thought given to the assimilation and Americanization of our foreign cousins and, sad as it is to say, a large majority of the Americans do not give them a thought even then, and yet, this is called "the land of the free and equal."

Americanization is a big word for a big problem. The problem is not a new one but was practically unthought of until 1909 and 1910 when "The Melting Pot" was published by Israel Zangwill, but even then it was not seriously studied. It took the World War to bring America to her senses in regard to Americanization. It was ascertained that hundreds of thousands of men alone had been living in the country for years and could not speak enough English to understand the commands given in the army.

Charity at Home
Is it not pitiful when we realize the chance we have had to show our love for God and our fellow beings to know that so far we have failed utterly. It would be impossible to expect the average citizen to meet his foreign cousin as an equal in his home, nor is this being expected of any one; but, when United States citizens leave their own country and go to foreign ones for missionary purposes, it is wrong.

Charity should begin at home. Would a mother with sick babies on her hand go to a neighbor and take care of the latter's children who were perhaps not quite so badly off? The world has yet to see a mother who would, and yet the principle is the same. Missionary work is very noble, but it should begin at home.

What It Means
There are few people in the United States who know the true meaning of Americanization. When asked his opinion of the meaning, one man said, "Americanization is teaching foreigners to be satisfied with their jobs"; another said, "Americanization is the reducing of the foreign born to a uniformity of opinion and belief in harmony with Americanism." Such beliefs are worthy of only some I. W. W. or Red, and it is to be hoped that the majority of Americans have different ideals. A true interpretation is: "Americanization means giving the immigrant the best America has to offer and retaining for America the best in the immigrant."

To some Americanization seems to apply only to the foreigners and immigrants within our gates but there are others inside our portals who need it as badly as the immigrant. There are the mountaineers who for centuries have lived practically a hermit. There are about two million of these mountaineers in America. Although living in the twentieth century their ideals and standards of living would agree much better with the eighteenth century. The Volstead act means nothing to them and they have never heard of women's suffrage. What a chance for teachers and missionaries.

Teachers' Problem
There is one and only one way to reach both the native and foreign born and that is through sympathetic teachers. There is absolutely no hopes of even starting assimilation until the foreigners can understand English. Right here arises the first problem for the teachers, how to teach English to foreigners. This is a very delicate process and must be handled with tact. The immigrant was brought up to love and respect his language and customs the same as the American and what has been drilled into him all his life cannot be wiped out in a week. He must be made to see how beneficial it is to him to learn the language and customs of his new country.

The work of the teachers in the foreign settlement is far different from that of an ordinary teacher. The greater part of her work lies in the home itself. The mother is the only one of the entire family not having a chance to learn a little of the American customs and ideals and as she has the most influence over the family she should be the first to be approached in the Americanization work.

No Holding Back
This work is very hard and those going into it must give themselves entirely over to it. There should be no holding back. Just joyful giving. Despite the hard work there are compensations. The looks that come over their faces when they have conquered a new problem or learned a hard word is almost enough to repay the teachers for their hard days' work.

These people almost worship their instructors. Are they not the means for bettering their conditions morally and economically? There is always the danger of too much work on the part of the teachers. This is bad both for student and instructor. A cranky teacher can do no good; these people want to love and be loved.

Teachers' Part Big
The teachers have the most important part of all to play in Americanization, but every person, great or small, can help by doing the fair thing by the foreigner whenever he comes in contact with him.

The children in school, instead of shunning the alien, should draw him into the games and make him feel at home. Let

Education Week

In all the days and weeks that have been set aside for observance in one way or another, National Education week is most important. It is good for every community to be aroused to its educational needs, and the value of its educational institutions, and the discussion of educational methods and problems should bear good fruit. We are too prone to leave these matters to the school teachers and wash our hands of them. Education is a broad field and touches life at many points. The right observance of Education week ought to be of great benefit to the community.

CONSTITUTION AND WHAT IT ASSURES

Life, Liberty And Pursuit Of Happiness Under U. S. Charter

By WILLIAM EGGERS
Let us, at first, consider the Constitution from the standpoint of why it was written. A view of the circumstances at the time will help us in this consideration. Our fathers had gained their political independence. Having felt both of the hard hand of oppression and of the promising, helpful hand of freedom, they of all men could appreciate that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness were the greatest gifts of man. Feeling so gracious after Fate's decision in their behalf, they desired to preserve for posterity the freedom they had won. Thus emerges the Constitution, a practical product of practical men.

Now let us see how the Constitution guards our personal freedom. It provides that the rights of free speech, unrestricted press and religious freedom shall not be abridged and to further safeguard them, it has established a Supreme Court, whose duty it is to finally annul any law contrary to our established rights.

Personal Security
What of our personal security, that is, the security of our persons? That, in the same way, is protected. We have the right of trial by jury, we have a law preventing unjust acts on the part of the government toward the people, we have our army and navy, and men with the same spirit that the men of Washington's time possessed, who would constantly and effectively fight any infringement on the rights of the people. We have that to be thankful for. Thus the security of you and me is guaranteed here by men and laws and everywhere else in the world by the power of our government. In the same way our personal property is definitely guarded, both at home and all over the earth.

Out of the recognition of the value of life our forefathers took every precaution that it be denied no one without positive assurance of the necessity of the act. If you are familiar with English history, you know that at the same time that capital punishment in America could be inflicted for only one crime—murder—the life of an Englishman could be taken for such trivialities as petty larceny and a host of small crimes all less serious than murder. Thus you see the founders of the United States had very "radical" but nevertheless very progressive ideas for the time. It is due to their admirable idea of justice that security of life was guaranteed at the outset.

Life and Liberty
Now if we review what is guaranteed under our Constitution, we have life, liberty and security both of our person and of our property. What more could a person fairly ask for opportunity? There is no need to show that under our Constitution greatest prosperity a nation has ever known, has been achieved. This is due to the fact that we can forget matters of government most of the time to attend to our business.

I do not doubt that at times there are slanderous remarks made of the Constitution, but if you investigate the remarks you will find that either the one who makes them is poorly informed or that wrong lies in the officers and executives of the laws and not in the laws themselves. And if this is the case—that the officials are inefficient, it is entirely due to the people's neglect to consider well at election time.

Evil Not Permanent
But fortunately even if it be so, the evil is not permanent and another chance is granted at the next election to create harmony by placing the proper officials in the office.

We have this day to observe the worthiness of our Constitution. If you do consider the document and the circumstances surrounding its formation you will feel a rallying spirit of its worthiness; and, if you consider well what you may think are the evils of our government, you will find that they disappear upon close inspection. We have, for us, a grand and glorious country and a government that gives liberty and justice to all.

CHECK CONFESSION
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Detectives today began a check on the confession made by Charles Herbert, 17-year-old army desertion, who shot and seriously wounded Policemen Clyde Mills and M. B. Swan. Herbert was arrested after staging a daring hold-up in Hollywood.

us do our bit in making America a true "melting pot" where every nationality is melted and molded into the desired shape, that of a true American.

PATRIOTISM AND ITS USEFUL END

Devotion To One's Country And Willingness to Sacrifice Much

By CAPT. WILLIAM H. REEVES
Were the students of Glendale High school asked for their definition of patriotism, a picture of a gallant officer, mounted upon a prancing steed, waving his sword as he called upon his troops to advance against the enemy, would very probably be presented to their minds. And this would be perfectly natural, because they would remember from their history that this was precisely what General Phil Sheridan did during the Civil war at the battle of Winchester, where he found his troops in a disastrous rout and shouted as he halted them: "Come on, boys, face the other way; we're going back!"

From the dawn of history men and women have revered the memory of those patriots who have laid down their lives in battle for their country. As Lord Macaulay so well put it: "How can man die better than facing fearful odds, For the ashes of his fathers and the temples of his Gods."

And we like to think of those three immortal Spartans who saved their country by defending the pass of Thermopylae with their lives. Yes, and of those equally brave Texans who died so gallantly at the Alamo, leaving not a solitary survivor to tell their tragic story.

Patriotism to Country
Patriotism means devotion to one's country. A patriot is one willing to make any needed sacrifice in his nation's behalf, either in time of war, or of peace. And while the war-time patriotism may often be more spectacular, it may have no more real value than the peace-time article.

This is the lesson brought to our Glendale schools each year through the Memorial Day visits of the representatives of the old Grand Army, the Spanish War Veterans, and the young soldiers of the World War. We try to show our budding patriots that it is just as important to be good citizens as it is to be loyal soldiers; that the true American ideal should be a life of service, rather than one of selfishness—a spirit of devotion and sacrifice for the common good.

I am reminded in this connection that the week of November 16 to 22 has been designated as American Education Week, during which time all parents and citizens are requested to visit our schools. May I not suggest that this invitation should be considered both as a privilege and as a civic duty. Let us all do our patriotic bit that week by coming into close personal contact with our local educational system, and with those civic patriots who are spending their lives in an earnest effort to make good citizens out of our boys and girls.

Founds Democracy on Four Famous Charters
By ELSIE MAE FORSYTHE
The growth of democracy has been based on four great documents—the declaration, the sermon on the mount, the Magna Charta and the Constitution of the United States. In the order named they are the great authoritative writings on Law, Brotherhood, Justice and Liberty.

The Constitution of the United States is the guardian and defender of liberty. It is a general mistake, made by many people, that the Constitution of the United States is an emancipation proclamation. However, it is not. It simply defines and describes the orderly processes of government by which a democracy must function. The Constitution is idealistic, it dignifies all men and exalts the worth of men. But it is practical in its provisions for government. Its framers recognized that order, justice and liberty can only be assured by practical checks and balances for dealing with human nature in all phases.

The Constitution has withstood the supreme test of revolution, war and other natural crises. Its provisions for human welfare, social progress and national growth have functioned successfully, and it has been as a "buckler and shield" against the forces of anarchy and destruction. With the Constitution for our foundation we have developed the greatest democracy of all time, and have proved that liberty, equality, justice and truth are practical foundations on which to establish a nation.

(10 Years Old)

As I was sailing through the sky in a cloud I heard a loud noise and the cloud turned black. Then a zig-zag light began to move and something hit me. I went sailing through the air and landed in a big pool of water on earth. Many fires have started in this way. The last fire we had was the San Gabriel fire, which was started by carelessness. The man who started it threw his match out into the dry grass without seeing that it was put out. Also many children have been burned to death by playing with matches. That is one thing in which we must be very careful. Let us try to help California prevent fires. California pays us back by giving us many beautiful forests and a good water supply.

BOY TELLS STORY OF DIME JOURNEY

Boy Relates How Money Was Handed Around Finally Reaching Bank

By LAWRENCE HOLMAN
(Wilson Intermediate, B-7)
"I need another dime," exclaimed the country storekeeper, as he counted out change for the traveling man. "Oh," said the dime as it lay in the little tin tray. "I wonder if I will be chosen this time." Surely enough it was chosen. Very soon the storekeeper picked it up and handed it to the man.

The man took the dime, put it into his pocket, and went out, while the dime wondered what would happen next. The man walked to the station, boarded a train bound for New York; and the next thing the dime knew it was in the hands of a newsboy.

Newsboy Gets Hungry
By and by the newsboy became hungry, so he went to a restaurant and spent the dime for his lunch. "This is a nice place than the little tin tray," said the dime as it was dropped into the cash register. "But no sooner am I in than out again," it said as the clerk picked it up and handed it to a lady who wanted some change.

"I wonder what my next adventure will be," thought the dime as it was carried into the woman's home. It had not long to wait, however, for soon in came the woman's little boy crying at the top of his voice. "Mother, mother! there is a monkey and organ grinder out in the street. May I give the monkey some money?"

Savings Account Benefits
"Yes," said his mother. "Here is a dime. Give it to him." As soon as the organ grinder got the dime he put it into his pocket. It happened that he had a hole in his pocket, and soon the dime fell out and lay shining in the sand.

By and by a thrifty man came along and saw the dime. "A dime saved is a dime earned," he said as he put it away.

Later he put it in his savings account, so that some day it might be used for a good cause.

CITY TRAFFIC SURVEY IS PLANNED

Experts on L. A. Problem to Be Retained to Solve Growing Hindrance

A complete survey of traffic conditions in Glendale and the adoption of a comprehensive plan for handling traffic problems of the future, loomed today following action by the City Planning commission recommending such a survey to the City Council.

As a result of the commission's action, traffic experts who recently completed the proposed plan for an adequate highway system in Los Angeles after an extensive investigation into problems confronting that city, will appear before the council tomorrow night and outline a scheme for a survey here which will dovetail into the Los Angeles plan and work in harmony and conjunction with it.

The planning commission urged that either the experts who conducted the Los Angeles survey, or others equally qualified, be retained by the city at an early date to make a full investigation into traffic problems which now confront the city and those which will arise to hinder growth and advancement in the future.

Members of the commission met with the councilmen at city hall last night, and after a thorough discussion of the plan, and its endorsement by the planners, the councilmen and a number of interested chamber of commerce members and other citizens, recommended the retention of the traffic expert.

As a result of action taken last night, Harland Bartholomew, consultant.

'ADAM AND EVA' CLEVER COMEDY

Tomorrow Matinee Will See Dobinson Players Again In Dalton Play

"Adam and Eva" the clever comedy presented by the Dobinson Players at the Club playhouse this week beginning Wednesday matinee, contains all the elements that go to make a play worth seeing. Humorous situations, clever lines, laughable characters, striking stage settings and stunning costumes worn by the women of the company all tend to make it a production of exceptional value.

Each member of the cast plays his or her part with ability. George C. Pearce in the role of James King, the father, a typical American character, does exceptional acting, and Mary Isabelle Alpaugh as Eva, his daughter, is charming. Adam, as played by William H. Stephens is a lovable character, and Carroll Nye as Uncle Horace is perfect. Gertrude Rothe is delightful in the role of Julie, and Richard Ehlers does clever work as Clinton De Witt, her husband. Lord Andrew Gordon as played by Arthur Lovejoy is a splendid characterization and Thyrza Ruhlman plays the part of Corintha admirably. Rosamonde Joyzelle does good work in the role of Aunt Abby Rooker, as does Eldon Bullis as Dr. Jack Delamater.

CLUB BAZAAR PROVING SUCCESS

Hospitality Radiates at All Booths; Annual Event to Close Tonight

Hospitality at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse yesterday and today has been radiant with the holiday spirit for the club women and their friends have been participating in the club's annual bazaar, which began yesterday and will continue until tonight.

Concerted action on the part of all club members is evident in every detail of the affair, which has transformed the clubhouse into a bright holiday scene.

Every corner of the clubhouse presents something of interest, where valuable suggestions are given for gift making and countless attractive articles are on sale. Under the capable direction of Estelle Brain the arts and crafts department, has a wonderfully artistic creative booth.

Booths Arranged

The cooked food booth in charge of Mrs. T. H. Johnson, chairman of philanthropy, Mrs. W. L. Jencks, chairman of patriotism, and Miss Ida D. Myers, American citizenship department, proved so popular that at an early hour last night it was sold out and closed and preparations were being made to supply urgent demands today. Colorful in its arrangement is the balloon booth arranged by Mrs. C. H. Temple, curator of the Bible department. With almost spring weather prevailing, a good sun is being realized by Mrs. H. C. Vandewater of the drama department, at the ice cream booth.

Gifts galore are to be found at the fancy work booth, in charge of Mrs. Roberta T. Young. Every sweet tooth can be filled at the candy booth, cleverly arranged by Mrs. H. W. Ralston of the Shakespeare department, to represent the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." Aprons of every kind are to be found at the apron booth, conducted by the courtesy committee, Mrs. C. E. Norton, chairman.

Mysterious packages that are pleasurable surprises are offered at the parcels post booth in charge of Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth, chairman of Indian welfare, and Mrs. E. S. Dodds, chairman of reciprocity.

Even Baby Booth

A medley of linens and laces is the handkerchief booth presided over by Mrs. H. B. Lockwood. The spirit of Christmas is found in the features at the Christmas booth, arranged by Mrs. W. H. Verity of the parliamentary law department. Mrs. Bert Woodard presides over the attractive pillow booth; Mrs. J. H. Toal has countless clever toys for sale; Mrs. C. A. Brandstater of the decoration committee, has the fish pond; Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, chairman of international relations, the dragon and ball feature; Miss Cora Griffith the white elephant; and Mrs. R. W. Bolton of the literature department, the popular variety booth. Each of these chairmen is assisted by club members from the committees and departments.

Mention should be made of the enterprising spirit of the club grandmothers, who organized to arrange the baby booth, where Mrs. E. W. Kinney presides with much success.

Most popular was the nickel dance held last night in the banquet hall by the fine arts department, Mrs. Roy Ballagh, curator, and the maids and young matrons, Mrs. C. G. Putnam, curator. The ballroom was filled for every dance, for which music was furnished by Roy Biddlecom's Elks orchestra. Luncheon was served yesterday and today by the hospitality committee, Mrs. Fred Abney, chairman. No admission is charged for entrance into the clubhouse and no chances are being sold.

Two large department stores in Canton, China, operate moving picture theatres.

Sophomores Adopt Lumberjack Shirts

Sophomores at the University of Southern California have blossomed forth as lumberjacks. Lowly frosh always have had their cardinal and gold crush hats, seniors have adorned their noddies with lofty sombreros and juniors have invested in cord pants; but the sophs, the terror of the frosh, have never had an official way of telling the campus their rank.

This year the idea of a uniform shirt was conceived in the fertile mind of some second year man, and now the shirts have made their appearance, and the campus resembles mess time at a lumber camp. The shirts selected by the class of '27 are striking in color, being a shade that hesitates between a green and blue, leaving no opening for oversight. Durability and warmth are also present in generous proportions, and the shirt is worn as a coat over the student's shirt. The fact that the shirts are meeting with favor in feminine eyes is going far in giving them immense popularity among second year men.

REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETING TONIGHT

Committee on Organization To Report at Meeting In City Hall

By R. S. PERSON

Temporary Chairman, Glendale Republican Club.

There will be an adjourned meeting of Republicans at the council chamber in the city hall, tonight, November 18, at 7:30 o'clock, to receive the reports of the committees on constitution and by-laws and organization and take action thereon. At this meeting it is proposed to adopt a constitution and choose officers for a short term ending February 12, 1935, Lincoln's birthday anniversary; also to choose an executive committee of five for the same short term. The Glendale Republican club will then begin to function as a permanent organization.

Every Republican who attended the initial meeting a week ago, to the number of about sixty-two, is urged to attend tonight and bring at least one new member.

Invitation again is extended to all local Republicans to attend and take part in the proceedings. Local members of the sixty-first assembly district Republican club are cordially invited to become charter members of the Glendale Republican club. Local members of any other Republican organization are also included in this invitation.

The draft of the constitution which will be submitted with a unanimous committee report for its adoption, contains this preamble, reciting the object of the organization: "To aid in preserving the integrity of the constitution of the United States, and the form of government ordained and established by the fathers of our republic; to promote patriotism and respect for law and established authority; and to perpetuate the Republican party as a virile political agency of better government and to enlarge its influence as the dominant constructive and defensive force in American politics."

That expresses a realizable ideal and it calls for the best that there is in us. Join us in putting together a clean-cut political organization with high purpose and then give it your active support to keep it such.

STATE PRESIDENT HONORED BY CLUB

Louis O'Neil, of San Jose, Guest of Exchangeites At Noon Luncheon

Members of the Glendale Exchange club today honored the state president, Louis O'Neil, of San Jose, who is touring the state, visiting various Exchange clubs. Mr. O'Neil reached Glendale shortly after 1 o'clock, after addressing the members of the Hollywood Exchange club.

The work of Exchange clubs in California were described by Mr. O'Neil in a brief address. He received a report from R. E. Johnston, president of the local Exchange club, on the work the Glendale organization has accomplished during the past year, and was told of the objectives of the local club along benevolent and civic lines.

Outlines Work

Mr. O'Neil briefly sketched the work of the national organization at the Nashville convention, and gave a resume of the part taken by President Johnston at the national meeting. He made a number of suggestions for the betterment of all Exchange clubs, and said that he expected to see a statewide, concerted effort by Exchange clubs as an objective to take the place of individual and local efforts.

Mr. O'Neil was accompanied to Glendale by James Lynch, Arthur Bowden, Z. F. Foster and Robert Jones, the Long Beach Exchange club. He told of the presentation of the charter to the Santa Ana club Saturday night.

FLOOD PLAN APPROVED BY C. C.

Board Votes Unanimously to Divert Sycamore Canyon Water Anew

Percy J. Hayselden, chamber of commerce director, and City Manager V. B. Stone appeared before the board of supervisors of Los Angeles today and presented drafts of the two resolutions adopted by the chamber of commerce flood control committee last night. The supervisors set next Monday morning at 10 o'clock as the time for final decision on the request of the chamber and Mr. Stone.

After two and one-half hours of lively discussion the plan of County Flood Control Engineer James F. Regan to divert flood waters of Sycamore canyon through a subterranean passage into Verdugo canyon received the unanimous endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce flood control committee last night. Board of directors went on record today favoring construction of the tunnel, in accordance with the action of the flood committee. Every civic body in Glendale has been requested to join the chamber and members of City Council in an effort to gain acceptance of the tunnel plan by the county supervisors.

A week of consideration, personal study, meetings with Engineer Regan, members of the Board of Supervisors and the City Council, played important parts in influencing the final action of the chamber committee, members of which, only a week ago, partially denounced the plans for the tunnel and the rip-rapping of Verdugo channel.

The recommendation will be carried to the supervisors who, it is expected, will act in accordance with the request for the tunnel instead of ordering the completion of the Sycamore Canyon road project. With the endorsement of the tunnel plan became automatically taboos by the chamber of commerce.

Every Angle Discussed

In the two and one-half hours during which officers and members of the chamber, city officials, members of the planning commission and private citizens, representing every section of the city, argued the tunnel matter, every angle and phase of the question was brought out.

W. E. Hewitt, president of the chamber of commerce, presided, and called upon Peter Perry, who presented his plan for a scenic concrete channel and highway in the Verdugo wash. Proponents of the tunnel between the two canyons shelved the channel-highway plans and launched into the discussion of the diversion of the Sycamore canyon waters.

City Manager V. B. Stone championed the cause of the tunnel. He said Engineer Regan had stamped the plan as strictly

SANTA CLAUS NOT TO BE SHUNNED

Postmaster Jackson to See To It St. Nicholas Gets Attention

Amid the hustle and bustle of a United States postoffice, particularly one in Southern California where the ever increasing population make postal problems doubly hard, there is little or no room for sentiment. Yet there will be one sentimental observance strictly carried out at the Glendale postoffice this Christmas time, even in the face of indications that the rush will be the greatest ever.

There will be no clerk too busy or rushed to take a few extra steps to a special basket whenever he comes across a piece of mail addressed to Santa Claus. That was the explicit order issued today by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, that every letter or card addressed to Santa take precedent over all other mail and be delivered directly to him. Though heavy may be his load, the letter collector will carry carefully all missives addressed to Santa when he finds them posted in the mail boxes. Even the very obvious rule that United States mail must bear sufficient postage will be swept aside in the case of Santa Claus mail.

Santa Gets Preference

Postmaster Jackson personally will handle all letters and appeals to Santa Claus. He is now making arrangements with several local organizations to assist him in sorting out the worthy ones and seeing that Santa answers the appeals of the writers. This is a time-honored custom with the postmaster. In years past he has handled Santa Claus mail in a similar manner, and with the help of the Exchange club and the Glendale Welfare council and bureau, has made many humble homes happy and cheerful on Christmas morning where only desolate want and ardent longing existed before.

In talking of plans for handling Santa Claus mail, Postmaster Jackson recalled a number of pathetic cases of former years—how little children wrote appeals for gifts for their parents and brothers and sisters, in many instances entirely neglecting to mention themselves. Many in the past have asked that Santa bring "mamma a nice warm coat" or "daddy new shoes that won't let the water in," and investigation has disclosed these cases to be instances of genuine want where children gave no thought of toys.

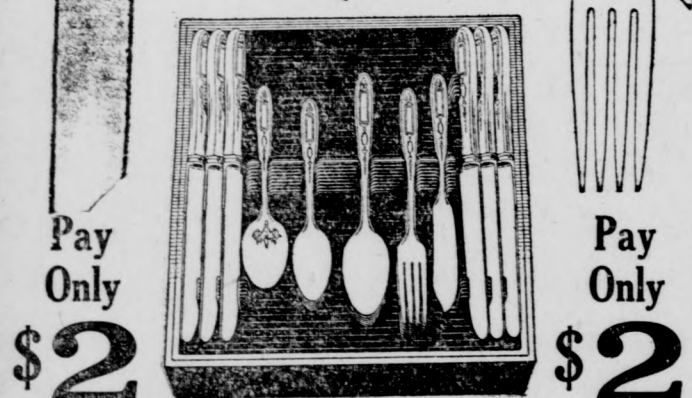

Children's Cases

"Bring my baby brother a rattle," one little girl of seven wrote, "cause he ain't ever had one like the little kids next door." The postmaster found in this case that the little girl had no doll and that as far as she remembered she never had had one. She said her mother told her "once when she

Daily Greeting to News Readers

TODAY IS THE DAY—

To put yesterday's good resolutions to work.
To guard your soul against tomorrow's reproaches.
To plant the flowers which will gladden your old age.
To begin practicing those promised economies.
To study yesterday's mistakes and plan tomorrow's solutions.
To clean your mind of fears, suspicions and envies.
To set all your goals a little ahead of your achievements.

OUR AIR PROGRAM

It is to be hoped that, with the election over, the cabinet re-organized, and the government functioning on a new basis, more attention will be given to our air transportation. The future of nations, both in peace and war, is in the air, and the United States has been lagging behind other countries with respect to air equipment, in spite of the notable achievements of a few American flyers in making records of various kinds. From now on, the nation that falls behind in creating great air fleets and maintaining them, will lose, both commercially and in the matter of national defense.

The value of aircraft for transportation has been abundantly demonstrated in the success of the air mail. With larger machines it will be possible to transport much bulkier parcels. Perhaps the airplane will solve the problem of distribution of farm products. It ought to be possible by the air method to deliver California fruits to eastern markets in two or three days, where six to ten are now required.

The British air ministry is said to be secretly experimenting with an airplane engine that will develop 3000 horse power, and, while it is the commercial possibilities of such a powerful plane that is being stressed the experiments are being made by that branch of the government that controls the air equipment in time of war. Such a plane could carry troops, machine guns, bombs for smaller planes and supplies. A nation so equipped would not only be free from invasion, but would be able to dictate to the world if it cared to do so.

The United States is not preparing for war, but our industrial and commercial growth depends upon our undertaking an air program of big proportions at once. Such an air fleet in case of attack, would provide a much more potent and less expensive defense than a big army and navy.

MAJORITY RULES

Americans are good losers. The voice of the people has been heard, and it is characteristic of us who are in the minority that we take defeat philosophically. It is not only good sportsmanship, but good sense. In our form of government, the majority rules, and we willingly submit. We fight hard for our ideals and principles, but when we lose there is nothing to do but be good natured about it.

The Glendale Evening News believed the civic center idea as presented to the people twice recently was good and practical. But, the majority of the voters spoke against it very decisively. And, those of us who are good citizens and good sports, must bow to their will.

But, a new city hall is a vital and immediate need. The people of Glendale are not unprogressive. Glendale is a growing and prosperous community, and the people are willing to provide a place where the business of the city may be carried on expeditiously. The matter of a city hall should be taken up at once and kept free from extraneous propositions, so that the people may be able to unite upon it.

The character of a city is determined by its people. In nearly twelve years of residence here, the editor of The Glendale Evening News has never known the people of Glendale to fail to approve any proposition which they believed to be good, necessary and right. Difference of opinion is inevitable, of course. Put up to the people a straight-forward proposition like the need of a new city hall, with no strings attached, and you will find them 100 per cent progressive.

GOLD MINES

The popular sport in the early days of California was digging for gold. Many of the pioneers found their fortunes embedded in the soil of California, and there are still those who go digging in the hills in the hope of finding the precious nuggets.

There is gold in California soil, but it is not all in ore or placer form. It is much easier to find than it was in the old days. Then the prospector spent all his ready cash for provisions to go into the hills for a period of several months to look for gold, or someone grubstaked him for the necessary supplies. Sometimes he found the precious metal and more often he didn't.

Anyone who owns a piece of Glendale real estate owns a gold mine. His initial investment, or his grubstake, is safe. The gold is there, but he doesn't have to dig for it, through long, heart-breaking months. All he has to do is to sit back and wait for the gold to accumulate, for his property is rising in value just as sure as gold was found in California in the days of '49.

Anyone who isn't too timid to spend his grubstake can partake of this gold. But, the time is now. The day will soon come when the cost of Glendale real estate will be beyond people of ordinary means, for, in the period of prosperity which is before us, real property here is going to take another skyward leap. It is the wise prospector and the one who will find the gold who starts out on his quest right now.

Oil has been called black gold, but it has no more right to that name than Glendale real estate.

EXPANSION AHEAD

It seems to be the universal agreement that the country is all set for a period of unprecedented prosperity. Undertakings of great magnitude, held up awaiting the outcome of the election, are already under way in various parts of the country, especially in Southern California. The stock market and general business conditions as well have taken an upward trend. Leaders in finance and industry are agreed that we are in for a season of record breaking totals.

In this connection, Frank Vanderlip, noted financier, says, "I believe we are beginning an economic period during which practically every total measuring business activity will far surpass former records. We already have satisfactory labor employment. With few exceptions there is no accumulation of surplus stocks of goods. There is a thoroughly sound banking position, and facilities for an almost unlimited extension of credit. There is an unusual degree of peace between employers and labor. There is a general feeling of confidence which promises to result in courageous undertaking of fresh enterprises. European conditions are much improved, and there is more reason for hopefulness than at any time since the armistice and I am confident there is no immediate serious threat that European industrial competition will endanger our own situation."

When we have eliminated disease and distance we will have conquered this world.

NOW IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Wireless And World Peace

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Sir Oliver Lodge, at Wembley the other day, hailed wireless as an important factor in coming world peace.

He said it would be a weapon of peace because it would promote a better understanding. This rests upon the fact that the reason why nations make war upon one another is because they do not understand each other.

The more familiar the people of one nation are with another, the less desire they have to go out and fight with that other nation.

Sir Oliver Lodge says that, as the ether welded the world together in a cosmic system of law and order, so will the radio weld humanity together so that it can face its common foe in a spirit of co-operation and mutual trust.

Humanity has enough fighting to do with the opposition of Nature and with the many forces that contend against its life upon the planet. There is no need for one group of men to set out to fight another group.

It will be found that all the progress in the world has been made, not by war, but in spite of war. Real progress is by co-operation.

All the inventions that have united humanity and increased transportation and communication have been agents for unity and peace. It remains for the politicians to discover some means by which the political units or nations can live together in peace; that is, a way in which they can co-operate against the forces of Nature and help each other instead of hindering each other.

There is no doubt that radio contains great possibilities for world unity. It is one of the methods of communication by which the various means of isolation are combatted. The commonwealth of nations, often called the British Empire, is peacefully disposed, he says, and, with its consins across the Atlantic, constituting the same race, speaking the same language, is now welded together by this new means of communication. If they set their face to the right, and are determined to preserve peace in the world, they will succeed.

The Anglo-Saxons, represented by the English and the Americans, are the most considerable forces in the world, both in intelligence and enterprise. Whatever welds them together will be welcome and whatever alienates them must be deplorable.

The ambitions and vanities of nations must give way before the common interest of all and the radio will be a considerable aid in that direction.

Horoscope

Although Mercury is in benefic aspect astrologers read this as rather a doubtful day. Jupiter is adverse.

Under this direction of the stars there will be probably much activity among newspapers which will chronicle sensational news.

Deaths of persons of world fame are prognosticated for the period just before the holidays.

There is a particularly good influence in the early evening for whatever is strictly literary and honors to authors are foreshadowed.

Psychic matters will attract extraordinary attention in the coming year, for scientific investigations are to lift one more veil between the material and the spiritual world.

November is to be a peculiarly eventful month for many persons who were not concerned in politics, and women will be the recipients of honors, it is foretold.

While this is not a favorable time for any sort of actual business initiative it promises much for those who deal in the fine arts and, indeed, to those who belong to the world of dreams.

Mortality may run very high in the coming winter when epidemics of various sorts will cause anxiety. Discontent and disappointment among labor organizations are to be expected at this time.

According to a prophecy by a London seer, there will be a world autonomy in which a financier is stronger than any ruler on earth.

The ferment of thought which has caused nations to distrust one another will continue strong in the next few weeks.

Education is to be the subject of criticism as bitter as it is undesired, it is prognosticated, and a leading university head is to make many enemies by his courageous defense of existing methods.

Persons whose birthdate it is should take especial care of their health in the coming year, which may be very trying. False friends may make trouble.

Children born on this day may meet with many financial disappointments, but these should develop unusual talents.

Who's Who

The recent election, among other interesting results, sends to congress its fifth woman member and its first fair congresswoman from the east. She is Mrs. Mary Norton, elected to the House of Representatives from the twelfth congressional district in New Jersey. She is also the first Democratic woman member of Congress.

Mrs. Norton's unopposed nomination by the Democratic party was regarded as equivalent to election, as the twelfth congressional district, New Jersey, coincides with the eleventh ward of Jersey City, a Democratic stronghold. She had the backing of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and the rest of the powerful Democratic organization in Hudson county. Mrs. Norton was a delegate to the Democratic National convention at Madison Square Garden and, like the rest of the New Jersey delegation, cast her vote faithfully for Al Smith for the presidential nomination until New York's governor withdrew from the race.

Mrs. Norton is vice chairman of the New Jersey Democratic state committee. She was the first woman freeholder in Hudson county, a position similar to that of county commissioner in New York, and is chairman of the county committee of the General Hospital and the Almshouse.

She is the wife of Robert F. Norton, Jersey City. Becoming interested in public affairs after the death of her only child, she volunteered more than ten years ago for the Queens Daughters Day Nursery in Hudson county for eight years. Her first political position came in 1920, when she was chosen vice-chairman of the county Democratic organization. The next year she became vice chairman of the state committee.

As a member of the Hudson County Board of Freeholders Mrs. Norton has been especially interested in hospital construction, particularly in the building of a new maternity hospital where women of small means may obtain

THE LORELEI

Yonder we see it from the steam-er's deck,
The haunted Mountain of the Lorelei—
The hanging crags sharp-cut
Against a sky
Clear as a sapphire without flaw
Or fleck.

'Twas here the Siren lay in wait
To wreck
The fisher lad. At dusk, as he Rowed by,
Perchance he heard her tender
Amorous cry.

And, seeing the wondrous whiteness of her neck,
Perchance would halt, and lean
Towards the shore;
Then she by that soft magic
Which she had

would lure him, and in gossamer
Of her hair,
Gold upon gold, would wrap him
O'er and o'er.

Wrap him, and sing to him, and
Drive him mad,
Then drag him down to no man
Knoweth where.

BEAUTIFYING HIGHWAYS

(San Bernardino Sun)

All through the coast region and the Sacramento valley the beautiful California live oaks grow. From early days there has been such a sentiment for their preservation that farmers have left them in their fields and orchards and have plowed around them year after year. This sentiment represents a considerable loss, because the ground occupied and shaded by one of these large trees would produce each year a considerable revenue. In some places as many as four fruit trees might be planted where one oak grows. At only a dollar a tree annual yield this would mean a ground rent for the tree of $4 a year. That is quite a sum for a farmer or orchardist to pay for sentiment, but it is worth all it costs, if not to the individual alone, then to the whole state.

In the building of roads many of these oaks have been cut down, while in other localities they have been left standing in the right of way. Some road commissioners refuse to cut down a tree, while others are ruthlessly unsentimental. The people of every locality should unite to preserve these trees as fully as possible. They are a characteristic California ornament. They hold great attraction to tourists. They constitute one of the allurements of the Golden State. That gives them a large advertising value from a purely economic standpoint.

Rather than destroy any of the trees nature has blessed us with we should be engaged in planting more along the highways, different kinds of trees, transforming such spaces as are barren into bowered beauties. There are here and there throughout the state considerable stretches of tree avenues, eucalyptus, oaks, palms, walnuts, peppers, etc. They give great pleasure to the tourist and to the resident alike. It would be a fine thing if every county and every community in the state would take up the task of lining the highways with trees of whatever sort deemed the most desirable. Flowers in the fields and trees along the roads would give California a greatly added attraction, and would not only pay in increased pleasure of living, but in dollars and cents. Tourists bring many millions of dollars every year, which are expended all along the highways. Money expended in greater pleasure of touring is money well invested.

ELKS ENTERTAIN PASADENA LODGE

Initiation Work Is Put on
By Visitors; Concert
Given by Band

Officers of Pasadena lodge, No. 672, B. P. O. E., headed by John A. Breiner, exalted ruler, were guests of Glendale lodge, No. 1289, at dinner served at the Harriett Mae tea room last night. After the dinner the party adjourned to the clubroom of Glendale lodge, where officers of Pasadena lodge put on the initiatory service, with the assistance of the Pasadena drill band of thirty pieces, directed by Professor Harrison, and the Pasadena drill team under the captaincy of George Cook. John F. Mills, Edward T. O'Leary and Carol S. Montgomery were initiated into the lodge. Three members admitted by demit were W. L. Twining and L. H. Myers, from Los Angeles lodge, No. 99, and Dr. A. J. Hook, from San Bernardino lodge, No. 836.

In the absence of Exalted Ruler Earl S. Patterson, who is confined to his home with a severe case of influenza, Gerald A. Dockertay, esteemed leading knight, filled the vacancy, with the assistance of Past Exalted Ruler James A. Apfel. After the initiation, talks by Harris H. Quimby, district deputy of California, south central district, other dignitaries and past exalted rulers of Pasadena lodge were given. Selections were given by the Pasadena band, and the glee club from Los Angeles lodge, No. 99, under the direction of Harry Girard, member of Glendale lodge.

Banquet Is Held

At the close of the meeting in the lodge room the Elks retired to the "Jinks" room, where a feed was enjoyed. Professor Martinielli, entertained the company by releasing himself from a strait-jacket, German torture strap and a United States mail sack. Martinielli was tied with ropes by various members present, but was able to free himself each time. The meeting was attended by 475 members of Glendale and Pasadena lodges. Burbank lodge, No. 1497, B. P. O. E., will be instituted on the night of December 2, and further notice will be made later.

All the plans for the charity ball, which will be given at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse on November 25, have been completed, and tickets have been mailed to each member. The Dobinson Players will put on a special play preceding the dance, and a concert will be given by the Elks' thirty-five-piece band, twice winners of the California state championship.

LINCOLN EXHIBIT ATTRACTS CROWD

Various Models Are Being
Of Ambassador

Newspapermen of Southern California were entertained at luncheon yesterday noon at the Hotel Ambassador by representatives of the Lincoln Motor Co. and later given a preview of the Lincoln display at the Ambassador auditorium.

There are fourteen Lincoln models on display, and the exhibit is declared to excel anything of the kind given anywhere. The display is open to the public and will continue Wednesday and Thursday. It is attracting crowds. The exhibition is declared to be "a rare opportunity to judge those distinctive advantages which give Lincoln so high a place in the motoring world."

The group includes typical Lincoln creations; the Judkins two-passenger coupe, Judkins Berlinne, and the Fleetwood limousine. Other features are the Lincoln exhibition chassis, a mechanical marvel in glistering steel; the Johansson precision blocks, and the Electro-Fog generator. The cut-away motor and body afford proof of Lincoln working perfection as well as its charm of line and finish.

RELATES PURPOSE OF CONSTITUTION

Superior Court Judge Tells Value of Nation's Most Noted Document

By HARTLEY SHAW
Judge of Superior Court of Los Angeles County.

The constitution of our country has been the subject of much discussion of late, and it is a subject which may well engage our attention, not only on special occasions, but at all times. Its consideration is peculiarly appropriate as a part of National Education Week, for upon the attitude taken toward it by the generation now in school must depend the fate of the constitution and, perhaps, of our nation. Their attitude will depend very largely on the information and instruction they receive while in school.

It is, therefore, within the province, and should be the special care, of our school system and all connected with it, to give the youths, who pass through the schools such information and instruction regarding our constitution as will enable them to understand and appreciate the general principles on which our form of government rests, and the reasons for its differences from those of other governments.

The briefest glance at the progress of mankind discloses the growing importance of government. In the days of the cave man there was no government; but men were few and far between. Each might be a law unto himself without coming often into conflict with others. But as population increased and civilization advanced, men came into closer contact and, consequently, conflict of interest became more frequent.

Formulate Systems

Gradually systems of government were evolved to regulate these matters. First, the family undertook to decide between its members; then the tribal council took up the task. Chiefs were elected, and these gradually developed into kings and emperors, who, forgetting their origin, claimed and exercised the right to control the destinies of their subjects without regard to the interests or wishes of the subjects.

Then came the effort to curb the power of those rulers, in which before our constitution was adopted our English ancestors had made considerable progress. They were not wise enough to permit all the rights they had won for themselves to be enjoyed in like manner by the American colonists. Hence our revolution, which established the United States as an independent nation and made necessary a constitution for its government.

In considering our constitution we may at once concede that it is a means, not an end; but the end is of the utmost importance. This proposition cannot be better stated than in the immortal words of the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created free and equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."

Origin of Constitution

The origin of our constitution is so far from us in point of time that some of us have forgotten how necessary are the limitations imposed on government thereby. Finding that the constitution bars them from the immediate realization of some purpose which they regard as desirable, and feeling that the management of the present is more important than they are tempted to rail at the constitution. But the founders of our nation, remembering the great principle of the Declaration of Independence, that the fundamental rights of men are inalienable, from which they justly concluded that no right could be conferred on any government to violate them, and well knowing, from their own experience as well as reading of history, that any government whose powers are unlimited will be tempted at times to exercise those powers in an arbitrary manner, inserted in our constitution a series of limitations on the powers of the government they were creating, which were intended to protect the fundamental rights of the individual from the abuse of power.

In so doing they set up a new standard among governments. While other peoples had imposed restraints on their rulers, those restraints had been directed at monarchs, rather than legislatures, and for the most part had not inured to the benefit of the common people. But the limitations of power in our constitution are applicable to all departments of government, so that none of them can deprive the humblest citizen of his constitutional rights.

Is Not Perfect

Our constitution is not, and was not intended to be, unchangeable. The framers of the Declaration of Independence stoutly asserted the right of the people to change their government; and the constitution makes provision for the orderly exercise of that right in such manner that any change which represents the deliberate and matured judgment of the people can be made without resorting to other than constitutional methods. All of us, including the schools, should therefore avoid the belief that the constitution is altogether perfect and that a suggestion of a change is necessarily an attack on our institutions.

But neither should we go to

PAUL TO ROMANS TEXT OF PASTOR

'Remedy Of Lost World'
Text At Presbyterian
Sunday Services

The subject Sunday at the Glendale Presbyterian church was "The Remedy for a Lost World," based on the text Romans 1:16: "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation unto everyone that believeth." Rev. Edmonds said:

"Here is a big text with an array of heart-searching words—I am not ashamed—others may be, not I. There is nothing egotistical about the Apostle Paul, however, for he lays his emphasis on the Gospel of Christ, and note the present tense, 'It is the power of God.'

"A book is the lengthened shadow of a human personality. Romans is the greatest book Paul ever wrote. Its theme is redemption, personal, social, individual, national, racial and international. Never did a man set pen to paper driven by a bigger theme. Think of it—How shall a man be saved? How is human nature to be changed? Does it need changing? How is the beast man to be de-throned? How are slavery, savagery, despotism, race hatred, caste, superstition and all that brood of hell to be thrust into the bottomless pit and righteousness to be exalted on the throne? In a word, how is a lost world to be brought back to God? Paul says, I know, I have the remedy—I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation unto everyone that believeth."

Rings With Defiance

"His announcement rings with defiance—he shouts with confidence—he's aflame with his theme. He has cut all bridges behind him; he sees but one road before him, he wants none other; it is long enough, strong enough, straight enough and safe enough to take him to his goal, for it is the power of God unto salvation unto everyone that believeth."

"The age in which Paul lived was spiritually bankrupt; the philosophy of the day befogged the common mind. Intellectual people ridiculed it, and rejected it; it promised what it could not accomplish and created hopes it could not satisfy. The situation among the Jews was no better; their religion had degenerated into a dead formalism. The Pharisees were ritualists; the Sadducees were skeptics. . . . Into this age of despair, Paul comes with this flaming Gospel. He declares he has found the road that leads into Life—he met a Saviour—a personal Saviour mighty enough to save a world, he has found the Gospel of Calvary and he declares it to be 'the Power of God.'

"Never did any man give up more than the Apostle Paul when he espoused the Gospel. He sacrificed nationalism—he became an outcast among his own people."

Ambassador in Bonds

"But he is not cast down—he declares, 'I am an ambassador in bonds. What things were gain, I count but loss for Christ.' The Gospel, to him, was worth the price. Results justified his confidence. People stopped long enough to listen, and listening—they threw away their false gods, and knelt at the 'old rugged cross' and there found life eternal. Individual characters were rehabilitated, hardened consciences were made tender; faith took the place of doubt, hope, of despair, love, of greed. The tired, homeless and hopeless and sin-cursed all found hope in the Gospel. The Gospel has spread until the marvel of its progress is the modern miracle."

"The Gospel is prophetic also; it is the hope of the world, and the only hope. The Gospel is doing its work before our very eyes. We might believe in Christ for what He did, but we must believe Him for what He is doing. Society can only be saved from within, but the Gospel of Christ works from within. It is the hope of a new world—and the new order is coming. Victory is assured; the power of evil shall be overthrown—a time when none need say to his brother, 'Know the Lord,' for all shall know Him, and Christ Himself shall usher in that glad day. As we wait in the midst of the world's wreckage—the Gospel is our only hope and confidence, 'for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.'"

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Glendale commuters who are using their automobiles to transport themselves into Los Angeles will heed the word of warning from Captain Cleveland Heath, head of the Los Angeles traffic bureau:

"Speed laws will be enforced as they never have been enforced before. There will be no exceptions made. Speeders will be given the limit in fines and jail sentences."

There were 500 taken in the net spread out by the motor cops yesterday in the metropolis. They claim they are making the streets safe for pedestrians.

Instead, they are making Los Angeles a good place to stay away from! Do your shopping in Glendale. Take the street cars to work. Do not motor over to the city for the theatre. Otherwise you run the risk of running into the asinine motor laws laid down by our august state legislature.

The legislature meets next January. The first thing Representative Frank C. Weller and Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, representing this district, should do, in the opinion of the writer, is demand a revision of the motor vehicle regulations.

A careful motorist cannot respect the laws. A careless motorist does not respect the laws. Whoever heard of a driver slowing to fifteen miles per hour at intersections? What if they did? Traffic would be blocked from here to breakfast.

What would happen if motorists between Glendale and Los Angeles would observe the ten-mile bridge limit on Glendale boulevard across Los Angeles river? A person would have to start to work in the city the day before and reach home here the day after he quit because of the traffic jam.

Speed is essential to move traffic. Reckless driving is not to be condoned, but to ruthlessly drag good citizens into court because they have exceeded certain limits which have no relevancy to actual conditions, is the height of folly.

Again, the city of Los Angeles proposes to ban jay walking. Wonder if the august councilmen, who ride around in city owned cars, know why there is jay walking? Well, this writer knows! You can't get anywhere without taking the short-cuts with a gaping mob standing on every corner, window shopping, and what not.

They talk about the terrible toll of lives traffic takes. Why, the chances are that the parties killed are drunk, too old or too young to be allowed on the streets, or the victims of their own carelessness. Merely looking at the total number of deaths and howling "arrest the speeders" doesn't solve the problem.

Educate the drivers, arrest those who are reckless, get down to business, and make the highways safe for the motorist who knows how to drive. That's the program.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys If Back Pains You Or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year—Advertisement.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

MUCH ADO ABOUT SOMETHING—Part 2
In yesterday's paper on bobbed hair, I gave the affirmative side on the advisability of bobbing. Being a fair-minded woman (I hope) today I am going to give the negative side, as expressed in a letter to me from a real "he-man" (according to his own classification).

Here's the letter:
"Dear Madam:—In regard to your article on how to keep cool and prevent heat prostration, on hints on to eight you are right, but on No. 9 (to be bobbed), according to the Bible, common sense and decency, you are absolutely wrong. It says in the Bible that women who cut off their hair will become diseased and baldheaded. The old saying is true, that a woman's crowning glory is her hair, and no matter how homely a woman is, if she has a nice head of long hair, she is still attractive. If ever there is a disgusting sight to me, and hundreds of other men whom I know and often hear express themselves about it, it is bobbed hair. About 90 per cent of the bobbed hair women are either scratching their heads, or running their fingers through it, or other times, shaking their heads, regardless as to where they are. A very clean habit, don't you think so? More so if one has falling hair or dandruff. Do you think a real He Man wants to marry a bobbed hair woman who is the same as a man in woman's actions? Men have very little respect for bobbed haired women, and I can not bear the sight of them. So far as their being females, they have no more effect on me than if they were made of wood. I do love and admire long-haired women."

Tomorrow—Answers To Correspondents

"Did you see the piece in the newspaper, where a large number of western high school girls have rashes breaking out on their necks and the Board of Health told them the only remedy was to let their hair grow again, and they are doing so? The Bible is right."

"I am a strong, healthy man, and I have raised a strong, healthy family, and I would rather see my women dead than see them cut off their hair. I hope that you will not be offended at anything in this letter.—An American Man."

Now, according to the rules of debate, Mr. A. M., as I took the affirmative side on this bobbing question and came first, I can have a little time for rebuttal.

Now for the first point. Where did you find in the Bible that women who cut off their hair will become diseased and baldheaded? I have gone through my concordance and Bible and find nothing to substantiate your claims. In Isaiah 3:16, it states that the daughters of Zion who were haughty and certain other things

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924.

CHAPTER XXII

They trooped up the companionway. Grant looked for Susan, but she had hurried on to the young Lancaster. On deck they found that they were already headed for the narrow opening between the red and green lamps of the harbor. The great sweep of the bay was outlined by a glittering arc of lights; the towering hills in the background was bespangled with little points of fire. The Casino flared out in front. The moon, yellow and fuller at every moment, seemed to give a note almost of artificiality to the little scene; they could even hear the sound of music from the open windows of the Concert Room. Susan and Lancaster found their way into the bows and stood watching the phosphorus. Lyman brought coffee to Gertrude where she sat close to the rail.

"Do you really mean it about tomorrow?" he asked.

"Of course I do. Why not?"

"You were not engaged to dine with Grant Slattery," he complained. "You made that up."

"What if I did," she answered coolly. "Mr. Slattery is an old friend, he is very amusing and he talks about things that interest me."

"Don't I?" he demanded.

"To be frank you don't," she confessed. "You are very young, you know, and you think because you are private secretary to the Prime Minister that you have to wrap yourself in a mantle of impenetrable reserve. I'm positively ill at ease talking to you. I am so afraid that I shall ask something which will provoke one of your diplomatic replies."

He leaned a little nearer to her.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

The Dobinson Players will open Wednesday with a 2:30 o'clock matinee in the second week of the popular dramatic comedy, "Adam and Eva" from the pens of Guy Bolton and George Middleton, featuring Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, George C. Pearce and William H. Stephens. The play is being presented at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre and will show at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with a 2:30 o'clock Saturday matinee, announces Mrs. Florence Dobinson.

Miss Alpaugh as "Eva" has her first chance in a leading role and portrays this vivacious, sparkling character with charm and finesse. Miss Alpaugh is doing splendid work with the Dobinson Players and is being recognized as an actress of versatility.

THE T. D. & L.

"The Alaskan" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Wednesday and Thursday the feature is "Dangerous Money."

Grant walked into the Carlton at a quarter past twelve that evening, the exact hour mentioned by Cleo in the note which the commissionaire at the Sporting Club had given to him. He left his coat and hat in the coat room, made his way inside the restaurant, which was as yet sparsely occupied, and, ignoring the efforts of the maitre d'Hotel to provide him with a table, strolled across to where Cleo was seated alone. She welcomed him with a bare uplift of the eyebrows, the sparsest possible smile.

"You permit me?" he asked, with his hand on the back of her chair.

"Certainly," she assented. "Sit down if you wish, but I have changed my mind. I have nothing to say to you."

He summoned a waiter and ordered some wine.

"That seems unfortunate," he remarked. "May I have the pleasure of providing you with your accustomed beverage?"

"You can order some tea for me," she said shortly, "and as many cigarettes as you like. But, alas, you will be wasting your kindness. I have nothing to say to you."

"Perhaps," he suggested, "I should not be considered unreasonable if I ask why this change? I came here at your invitation."

"It is permitted always to a woman to change her mind," she said.

"But, my dear lady, consider how different everything would have been," Grant pointed out. "Things having happened, as they have, behold ourselves seated—friends, I trust—in this very pleasing place of entertainment, alive and well, and with perfect robust features. If you had killed that rather impossible young lady, where would you be now? In that uncomfortable-looking edifice which these wise people of Monte Carlo keep absolutely out of sight, awaiting your trial and not in the least sure what was going to happen to you."

"I am satisfied, if you are," she said shortly.

THE GATEWAY

Otis Harlan, who portrays the character of Puddlebox in the Vitagraph picture version of A. S. M. Hutchinson's famous novel, "The Clean Heart," which will be shown for the last time tonight at Gateway theatre, has had many strange experiences, but the most unique of all was to be used to boost California's prosperity.

In this new picture Mr. Harlan portrays a tramp. The actor owns an expensive automobile and is in the habit of riding to and from location in it.

During the filming of the production, he was returning from location one day in his tramp makeup when he passed one of the large sight-seeing buses in which a guide was pointing out the places of interest along the route. As Harlan passed the bus, he heard the guide shouting through his megaphone:

"Southern California is the most prosperous portion of the United States. As an evidence of the fact, note the tramp passing on my right. Even the tramps of this section tour the country in the most expensive and latest cars."

Harlan doesn't know yet whether he was being kidded or whether the joke was on the sightseers.

THE GLENDALE

"Wine" concludes today at the Glendale theatre. Wednesday and Thursday the feature is Alice Lake in "The Dancing Cheat."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE HAZELNUTS

Uncle Wiggily hopped into his hollow stump bungalow one day, just as Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzzy was talking on the telephone.

"Oh, my dear Mrs. Bushytail," Uncle Wiggily heard his muskrat lady housekeeper say. "I'm so sorry you haven't any. Well, I'll try Jennie Chipmunk's mother—perhaps she has some."

"What is it that you want and what Mrs. Bushytail hasn't," asked Uncle Wiggily, curious-like but kindly.

"Hazel nuts," answered Nurse Jane. "I'm so hungry for a hazel nut pudding and I thought I'd make one, for I know you like it."

"Indeed I do!" spoke the hungry rabbit. "But are hazel nuts scarce this year?"

"They seem to be," replied Nurse Jane. "I thought sure the squirrel lady would have some, but she says Johnnie and Billie haven't gathered any, though it is time for them."

"Yes, almost past time," said Mr. Longears. "Well, I have nothing special to do today, Janie, I'll hop out in the woods and see if I can find some hazel nuts for you, and, at the same time have an adventure for myself."

"Well, don't get into any danger," begged Miss Fuzzy Wuzzzy. "But I would like a hazel nut pudding."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields until he reached the woods about a mile from the hollow stump bungalow.

"There ought to be hazel nuts here," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking out loud as he sometimes did when he thought no one heard him. "Yes, there ought to be hazel nuts here, there are some very large trees."

Uncle Wiggily didn't know much about hazel nuts. The rabbit gentleman was looking around and sort of twinkling his pink nose, inquisitive like, trying to smell the hazel nuts when, all of a sudden, a voice cried:

"Well, there ought to be rabbits' ears to nibble in these woods and bless my eye teeth! If I don't see one rabbit! Yes, and it's Uncle Wiggily, too. Oh, what good luck!"

"Bad luck for me, I guess!" sighed the rabbit, and he started to hop away, but he was too late, for out popped the Bob Cat, catching the rabbit by his short, stumpy little tail and holding him tightly.

"Not so fast, Uncle Wiggily! Not so fast!" howled the Bob Cat. "Sit down with me here under this bush and we'll see what is going to happen!"

Uncle Wiggily could guess what was going to happen. His ears were going to be nibbled. But, all of a sudden, before the Bob Cat could open his mouth, a small brown nut dropped from the bush under which he held the rabbit and the nut hit the Bob Cat on the ear.

"Stop throwing things at me!" mewed the Bob Cat.

"I'm not throwing at you!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Bing!" down fell another nut, plopping the Bob Cat on the nose.

"Stop it! I tell you!" howled the Bob Cat.

"I'm not doing anything!" said Uncle Wiggily, wanting to laugh. And then there fell a regular shower of nuts, all of which hit the Bob Cat, but some of which tapped the rabbit, for the Bob Cat had thrust him far back under the bush. "Pitter patter!" fell the hazel nuts, for it was under a hazel nut bush that the Bob Cat had caught the bunny. These nuts didn't grow on trees. "Pitter patter!" they fell.

And so many of them dropped on the Bob Cat that he was frightened.

"I guess there are a lot of hunters in the woods, shooting nut bullets at me!" howled the Bob Cat. "I'm going to run home, I'll nibble your ears some other time!"

"Don't trouble yourself!" laughed the bunny, as he gathered up the late hazel nuts and took them to Nurse Jane, who made a fine pudding. And if the clothespin doesn't try to jump over the butter and fall ker-flop right in the middle of the sugar bowl, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Susie's watch.

BANKER TO SPEAK AT WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Greater Glendale Club to Hear Ex-Chautauqua Orator Thursday

H. V. Adams, nationally known orator and business expert, and for years a leading Chautauqua speaker, will deliver the main address at the weekly meeting of the Greater Glendale Luncheon club at Masonic temple Thursday noon. The committee chose Mr. Adams as speaker after many requests to hear him were received from members of the luncheon club. Mr. Adams, now head of the escrow department of the Glendale Savings bank, spoke before Glendale Merchants' association several weeks ago and made such an impression on his hearers that a return engagement was sought. "Psychology in Business" will be his topic.

Glendale business and professional women are expected to attend this meeting in numbers. Mrs. Martha Persch, secretary of the apartment house committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside. Mrs. Persch brought the matter of the luncheon before the last meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club, and it was voted all members should attend.

Mr. Kirkland was for five years connected with the Union Hardware and Metal Co., Los Angeles, and for eleven years prior to that with the builders' hardware department of the Hammond Lumber Co., Los Angeles. Mr. McConnell for years was Pacific coast representative of the Beaver Board Co. They are advertising special values in paint this week.

Legion Auxiliary Meet Votes to Help Needy

American Legion Auxiliary members met in the home of Mrs. Virgil Burris, 1623 East Chestnut street, last night with Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, president, in charge. Members decided to give the flower fund for the purchase of Christmas toys for needy children of California and the money will go to the state child welfare chairman. Interesting papers on National Education week were read by Mrs. Ed Hyer, Mrs. L. T. Rowley and Mrs. James McBryde. Women employees of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank are assisting auxiliary members and are making comfort bags, which will be given to ex-service men in the hospitals on Christmas. Members of the auxiliary are considering sponsoring a Girl Scout troop and, with this idea in mind, have planned to have a speaker on the Girl Scout movement at the next meeting with Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, 415 East Stocker street, on December 1.

At this meeting members are planning to bring an inexpensive top which will be given to needy children of Glendale Christmas. At the close of the business session, refreshments were served. Mrs. Charles Nagle entertained with piano selections.

My kidneys acted too often, especially at night when I had to get up to pass the secretions. I also had a steady ache and soreness across my kidneys. But after using one box of Doan's Pills from the Owl Drug Store, I was rid of the trouble."

GLENDALE ENTERS FIRST ROUND OF GRID PLAYOFF

Heavyweights Meet Van Nuys Here Friday; Local 110-Pounders Tackle Long Beach Team Saturday at Broadway Field

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

Glendale High school's gridiron warriors will enter the first round of the Southern California high school playoff this week with two games at home. Van Nuys will be the opponents of the heavyweights on Friday afternoon and the Long Beach 110-pounders will meet the local Class C team here Saturday.

Both home games are expected to be stiff battles, and bitterly contested from the opening kickoff to the final whistle. The Dynamiters met Van Nuys on the home grounds of the valley city's eleven on September 20 and one point decided the game. Both teams scored a touchdown, but Van Nuys failed to convert, while the Dynamiters booted the pigskin over the crossbar for victory.

Perhaps the hardest game will be the one with Long Beach. Both schools boast of strong Class C eleven, and will probably put up a battle well worth seeing. Coach Wolfe's gang subdued Pasadena, 9 to 0, while Long Beach beat the young Millionaires, 13 to 6. These scores give the locals only a slight edge over the beach city boys. Last year Long Beach beat the local heavyweights, 27 to 0, in a preliminary to the Glendale Long Beach heavyweight fringes in the Coliseum.

Three Teams in Playoff
To Glendale goes the honor of having three teams in the playoff this season. The heavyweights finished the Central league schedule with four victories and one defeat. The lightweights went through the schedule without a defeat and without being scored upon, while the 110-pounders had a clean slate at the end of the season. The heavyweights were downed last Thursday by South Pasadena High, 7 to 0.

Friday's defeat was quite a blow to the local fans, who had expected to see the Dynamiters hand the Tigers a good drubbing. The Dynamiters played a poor game against the Tigers, and will have to perk up somewhat if they expect to get far in the playoffs.

South Pasadena's touchdown, which came in the third quarter, was chiefly the cause of three of the backfield men being drawn in and boxed from the runner.

The Glendale end runs, which are usually sure ground gainers, failed because the interference was changing through without taking out their men, the opposing ends and backs.

Taking No Chances

Coach Hayhurst is taking no chances with Van Nuys, and is getting his machine well oiled. So far as injuries are concerned, the locals seem to be in A-1 condition. Jack Booker's nose, injured in the Covina game, is O. K. now, and Jack will probably start Friday at right half.

With the shifting of "Droopy" Phillips to the backfield, Bill Bradbury seems to have won himself a permanent job at right tackle. Bill played excellent games against both Covina and South Pasadena, staying the whole time. Ray Green was given a trial at right tackle for half of the South Pasadena game, but Dixon Fannon will probably start Friday, as he is heavier and more experienced.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Minor league owners are lining up in opposition to the major league proposal to increase the maximum player limit of the major league clubs to fifty. That would put 800 players into possession of the majors.

It takes just 144 players to play out a day's schedule of the sixteen major league clubs, provided there are not a lot of substitutions. However, in these days of mental gambling regarding pitchers a baseball "nine" frequently runs to fifteen in any given game.

It was never intended that baseball should be a game of limitless competition, so far as individuals are concerned and the present system is the outgrowth of the ability of clubs to corral a lot of players. The minors have felt for years that the majors were taking more players than they should. The minors have an equal right to extend their player limit if they wish to—but most of them would go broke if they did.

In the midsummer playing season, the major league clubs limit themselves to twenty-five players each, or 400 men. During that period they must farm 400 more out if the limit is increased to fifty. If the minors were to shut down on taking players from the majors there would be less desire on the part of the majors to acquire them, but so long as it is easy to farm players out, the big fellows will go on with big lists.

The minors have thought for some time that the present limit of forty players was too high for the majors and have thought that thirty about right in view of the fact that the majors concede they can get along with twenty-five in midseason. The majors' theory, of course, is that the early part of the season is experimental and that they must have a good list from which to choose the eventual twenty-five.

If the majors extend the limit to fifty, they will have a strangle hold on practically all the good baseball material in the country. For of all American millions, there are very few young men who can play the big league brand of baseball.

The minors in opposing the present proposed increase, argue that if the majors boost their numbers now, they are likely to do it again and again as the crop of good young players broadens and eventually will leave the minors nothing except borrowed players and schoolboys.

QUESTION—A substitute is sent on the field by a coach, but before he can reach an official play has started and his team, which is on the offensive, has scored. Is this a penalty? Is there a penalty?

ANSWER—Not necessarily. The referee has power to decide whether the incoming player had time and opportunity to report to an official, whether or not he interfered with the play, or communicated with players.

QUESTION—A punter kicks from behind his own goal. Ball strikes player of kicker's team which is lined up on the goal line. The ball bounces back over the goal line and is recovered by the kicker who downs it. Is this a safety against the kicking team?

ANSWER—Yes.

QUESTION—If on this play the punt is blocked by an opponent and the ball rolls back over the goal line and is downed by one of the kicker's side—is this a safety?

ANSWER—No, because the impulse that sent the ball over the goal line came from the defending side.

CARDINALS-BEARS SET FOR BATTLE

Both Elevens Expected To Spring Surprises In Game Saturday

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—The time for the removal of wraps is near at hand.

In the meeting, Saturday, Nov. 22, at Berkeley, California and Stanford, will clash not only two football elevens but the minds of two of the greatest football strategists of modern times. Without question throughout the season now drawing to a close both California and Stanford have been playing "under wraps."

When the season started, doleful wails arose over California's prospects. Tears were shed over the "poor material" Andy Smith had to work with. But somehow to date this same "poor material" has managed to hold its own and despite the fact that both University of Southern California and Washington did their derndest to tear off the "wraps" under which the Bears have been traveling, they did not succeed entirely.

Exactly the same situation prevails down at Palo Alto. The early season showing of Stanford shocked its supporters. They expected the coming of Pop Warner to herald a smashing Cardinal scoring machine which would literally wipe opponents off the map. But nothing doing. Pop Warner was looking forward to November 22, just as Andy Smith has been doing.

Warner in Showdown
The net result is that the real 1924 California and Stanford elevens will not stand revealed until November 22. Then and only then will the results of Warner's tutelage down at Palo Alto stand forth, and only then will Andy Smith call forth his master strategy of 1924.

The game may result in big surprises. Pop Warner has a record for such surprises and Andy Smith is not far behind him, although this is the first time since his mentorship of the Bear eleven that he has been called upon to conduct a campaign similar to that of this year. Smith has simply taken a leaf out of Warner's book and has prepared to meet a surprise by springing one of his own. Such a situation might result in a runaway for either of the elevens.

To say the least, it will provide a record-breaking crowd that will see the "big game" and such an abundance of thrills that the 1924 Smith-Warner engagement of wits may go down in gridiron history as one of the most remarkable football games in Pacific Coast history.

Copyright, 1924, by Evening News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—If easterners and middle western boxers, Benny Leonard chief among them, make good their threats to leave the east cold and descend upon California where they have a real boxing law, every one of them should bear an important fact in mind.

They will have to produce as they have not been in the habit of producing around these dignities.

Californians know boxers and they have been bred on real raw meat on the Pacific coast. Only the younger fans out there are not familiar with the honest to goodness scrappers that the Golden state produced in the palmy days of fight down there.

Jim Corbett, Joe Choynick, Jim Jeffries, Jimmie Britt, Eddie Hanlon, Willie Ritchie, Aurelia Sererra, Joe Rivers, Spider Kelly, Frankie Neil, Eddie Campi, Abe Attell and Monte Attell.

Here is a bunch of men that make most of the present lights of the ring look cheap.

They are boys who loved the dollar but loved the fighting part of the game too, and when they met the losers end was unlikely to include even training expenses.

The practice of carrying opponents, of two stepping through bouts and pulling punches is not likely to go big on the western slope. On the other hand with a willingness to give the best they have got there ought to be a harvest of money for a lot of the good ones.

Dundee Hopes to Get His Title Back Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—On the eve of sailing for Europe, Johnny Dundee, who recently resigned his featherweight championship, declared today he may attempt to reclaim the title upon his return here. Dundee said he intended to take part in several bouts in Europe, and if convinced he could make the featherweight limit of 126 pounds and be at his best, would re-enter the class.

Oscar Vitt Is Named Manager of Salt Lake

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Oscar Vitt, third baseman of the Mormons, will manage the Salt Lake team the coming year, President William Lane announced here today. Vitt, product of local sand lots, started with the Seals, went to the big leagues and came back to Salt Lake some years ago. He succeeds Duffy Lewis, now with Portland.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Hugo Bezdek, old war-horse now telling the warriors at Penn State how to hold onto, run with and advance the old pigskin, has a career behind him more checked than that left by the late Jack London.

Hugo came by his grid aggressiveness through the school of hard knocks. At one time he was a master of Kid Queensberry's little parlor game of cauliflowering the other fellow's ears. And he was no slouch. He could hit harder and faster than holiday brand of gin.

Boys gaining their knowledge of football under the eagle eye of Alonzo Stagg usually know something about what football is all about when they get through. Hugo was one of Stagg's pupils. Stagg showed the old master Zuppke a week back how to stop this demon "Red" Grange. The Googie Gophers from the land of flower mills just carried on the good work of Stagg last Saturday when they gave "Red" the only uncomplimentary slap he's had.

More upsets, setbacks and halfbacks have been "set" merry-go-rounding this grid season than Ford has pennies.

Tigers started unsettling everything but campus bootlegger. Bulldog turned on 'em like Mexican deputies did the fellow who snared woman Chicago threw scare into Illini and "Red" Grange that would have made a marine turn pale. Columbia started upsetting the boys like bull in china store. All the boys have been pooling their "upsets" against Knute Rockne and his Irishmen, but they might as well have bucked Mussolini and his Fascist playmates.

Little St. Mary's tumbled Gloomy Gus Henderson's promising Trojan outfit like Weiner tumbled the Pampas Bull. Tigers trimmed Harvard like grandma trimmed lamps.

Now the big question pops—will Stanford or California do the upsetting? Saturday will unravel the mysterious goings-on evidenced by old Pop Warner and Andy Smith.

Old-timers harken back to days when Pop threw a scare into Old Man Harvard that fairly shook the foundations at Cambridge. If memory serves us rightly it was that sly little Red Skin, Exendine, now coaching W. S. C., playing quarter for Carlisle, who slipped the pigskin under his jersey and ran the length of the field for a touchdown before Crimson warriors knew what it was all about. Old Pop was coaching that famous team of Injuns of which the great batter Jim Thorpe was captain.

Warner has more tricks behind grey hairs than a spooning tomcat. Stanford was no chump when it got Pop's name on the dotted line. Stanford boys might flunk in differential calculus, forget formula for hydrochloric acid or misinterpret Cicero, but if they don't get Pop they get off gridiron and into civies.

Andy Smith is no chump either—speaking of chumps. Andy hails from U. of P. where they turn out two crack specialists—good drinkers and good football teams. Andy matriculated in last named. Picked for Walter Camp's All-American bunch. Coached Boiler-makers at Purdue where coach has to wear head-gear and skin-guards for self-preservation. The tricky guy will win Saturday. On that basis we lay all bets on Pop.

WALTER CAMP SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

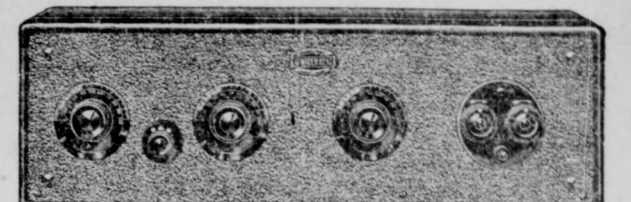

SEATTLE, Nov. 18.—School football is drawing good crowds out here on the Pacific coast. The boys teams play very advanced games using shift plays and the forward pass freely, thus preparing good material for later varsity teams.

Football fields out here are of different footing from most of the eastern gridirons and of course when wet, they are hard on the turns and reverses. But sawdust helps and on the whole the players give a very creditable performance even under adverse conditions.

With the great amount of international football there is very little difference nowadays in the characteristics of the play whether eastern, middle western, or coast.

Interest and excitement out here is increasing daily on what November 22 will show as to the relative merits of Pop Warner's Stanford team and Andy Smith's Californians. Each coach has greatly improved the work of his men in the last few weeks.

Where others skid—Western Giant CORDS travel thru

WET WEATHER

—slippery streets—careening motor cars and an occasional crash!

—but the driver of the car equipped with "Western Giant" Cords travels through because the high square tread and the row of deep suction cups on "Western Giant" Cords hold like a "leech" to wet and slippery pavements.

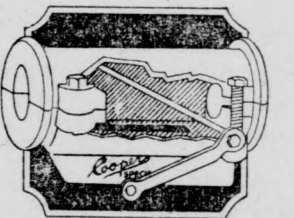

The non-skid feature of "Western Giant" Cords is only one of many outstanding points that makes the tire one of the most popular in the West.

LAW AT RINGSIDE IN CULVER CITY

District Attorney to Issue Warrants for Arrest of Fuente, Fulton, et al

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Fred Fulton, Minnesota heavyweight; Tony Fuente, Los Angeles boxer, and Fred (Windy) Winsor, well-known California fight manager and former director of Jack Dempsey, will be arrested today, according to District Attorney Asa Keyes, as a result of a bout in the new American Legion club at Culver City last night. In the contest Fulton went down like a folded flag before he had taken any punishment from his opponent, according to investigators for the district attorney, who were at the ringside.

"There appearing to have been a frameup, according to the best information, and the principals in the affair will be arrested," said Keyes. "Warrants will be issued at once for Fulton, Fuente, Winsor and maybe others."

Fulton, according to the district attorney, is known to be a professional boxer, and therefore is barred from appearing in California, where only amateurs may lawfully box.

According to Keyes, investigators for his office were sent to the Fuente-Fulton bout when rumors that it was to be "crooked" reached him. City officials of Culver City reported to him they had heard the bout was "fixed."

Portland Fight Fans Were Suspicious, Too

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 18.—That there was something under cover in the Fred Fulton-Tony Fuente bout in Culver City last night is the belief of some boxing fans here today.

Child Bitten by Dog; Parents Seek Animal

Fred Bayha, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bayha of 317 Mira Loma street, is suffering from a severe bite on his right cheek, received yesterday morning, when in childish glee he hugged a stray dog that had laid down to sleep on the porch of the Bayha home. Mrs. Bayha states that the dog had no collar, was tan in color with a black spot on its back. She states that she thinks the animal came up on the porch to sleep. The little boy loves dogs, and, thinking that all dogs are as gentle as his own dog, he approached the strange animal and put his arms around his neck and hugged him.

Whether the dog was frightened in waking from his sleep or whether he was of an ugly disposition is not known. Mrs. Bayha states that she hit him and he ran before anyone could get him. The injured child was taken at once to the city health office, where his wound was cauterized. Mrs. Bayha has been instructed to find the dog if possible, and she is making a plea through The Glendale Evening News that if any neighbors or residents of the vicinity of her home know of the dog they call her at Glendale 662-J. It is possible that the boy will be given the Pasteur treatment.

McCormack Company Votes Surplus Account

McCormack & Associates corporation this morning it was voted to set aside into the surplus and reserve account 20 per cent of the net earnings of the company for the past quarter. The regular dividend of 2 per cent, together with a special dividend of 1 per cent, payable December 15, also was declared.

Stephen W. Huntington, who recently underwrote $10,000 of the corporation's stock reported that the entire 100 shares had been sold out within fourteen days at $110 a share, adding $10,000 to the corporation's investment fund and $1000 to the surplus and reserve account.

City Traffic Problems Come Up for Solution

sulting engineer of the Los Angeles city and county traffic commission, will make an inspection tour of Glendale's main arteries early Thursday afternoon, after which he will go before a mass meeting of citizens and the council at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse and offer suggestions and tentative plans for a local survey.

The Chamber of Commerce, really board, council, planning commission and other civic bodies joined in an appeal to all citizens of Glendale to attend the mass meeting, which will start at 3 o'clock. A definite decision as to whether the Los Angeles experts or others will be retained will be made by the council following this meeting.

Thomas W. Watson, chairman, Percy J. Hayselden, secretary, S. C. Kinch, Harry Hague and John H. Randall, all members of the commission, along with Spencer Robinson and Councilmen C. E. Kimlin, S. A. Davis, and Asa Hall spoke in behalf of the traffic survey.

Arguments For
In presenting the matter, Chairman Watson pointed out that Glendale's growth was unparalleled, and that with it, the problem of traffic congestion becomes more acute day by day. He predicted that unless steps were taken to handle the great floods of traffic to and from Glendale, this city will eventually lose its commanding position among Southern California municipalities.

He cited the condition existing in the southern part of the city where great traffic arteries converged and where main east-and-west boulevards cross the busiest north and south roads many times. Mr. Watson declared his belief that the Glendale traffic situation is worthy of deep and concentrated study on the part of experts.

Barnum Walters, subdivider, said no city in the Southland has such magnificent thoroughfares and such beautiful streets as Glendale. He added that no other city has such artistically checked and choiced thoroughfares at their most important points, as this city. He likewise pointed to the convergence of many main streets in the southern extremity of Glendale, but more particularly called attention to the manner in which the highways are "bottled up" at the Los Angeles river, with only one small bridge for an outlet. He urged immediate action to remedy this.

City Manager V. B. Stone, F. B. Newport and Lon Haddock were others urging the completion of a definite systematic plan of highways for Glendale.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Nov. 18.—Five men were elected to the board of directors of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce at the November meeting of that organization. H. H. Breit, Ed Forster, C. H. Conway, J. H. Kautz and C. Brooks received the winning votes. An amendment proposing to eliminate the board of directors and delegate their powers to the members of the chamber was voted down. On the motion of H. N. Fowler of Verdugo City, a committee was appointed to work with other committees of Verdugo hills organizations for the purpose of investigating methods of future political organization of the districts. Mr. Fowler enumerated the methods as: Annexation to Glendale, annexation to Los Angeles or incorporation into a self-governing municipality. ### FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Nov. 18.—The Methodist church officials have purchased the southeast corner of Colorado boulevard and Hermosa avenue and plan to erect there a $60,000 structure. They have sold their property on Casper avenue to Reynolds & Eberle and plan to dispose of the corner they own at Colorado boulevard and Casper avenue.

J. A. Morrow heads the building committee and Herbert Fisher is chairman of the finance committee. Arthur G. Lindley of Glendale, architect, is designing the new structure. It is expected that the Methodists will be able to occupy the church within the coming year. Three units have been included in the plans, one devoted to worship, another to religious education and the third to social functions. A gymnasium will be one of the features of the building and is entered in the design as one of the important considerations where the physical welfare of the younger people, or the older, will be taken care of under competent management.

Permission to complete the deals in question for the new church was granted the local Methodists on November 6, when the first quarterly conference of the First Methodist church was held with the new district superintendent, Dr. Walter C. Buckner, in the chair.

Flood Control Plan Is Approved by Chamber

feasible and advisable from an engineering standpoint.

Barnum Walters took up the arguments of the city manager and plead for the tunnel plan. He urged the civic duty which lay in permanently helping all Glendale and protecting the city against flood waters. He stressed that at present there are two sources of flood waters, and that the construction of the tunnel would eliminate one of them for all times.

Objections raised were answered and objections joined in the endorsement. The vote on the motion to accept the tunnel plan as against the completion of the Sycamore Canyon road project stood: Dr. Young, Mr. Hayselden, Mr. Perry, F. B. Newport, J. C. Sherer, M. Walters and W. J. Curran, all in favor, with none opposed.

A second motion which was adopted by the flood control committee was sponsored by Mr. Walters. In it the committee recommended immediate steps be taken to put Verdugo wash in a fit condition to carry off all flood waters both from its own canyon and those entering it through the proposed tunnel.

A third motion by Mr. Walters, that the City Council employ an expert flood control engineer to conduct a survey and map out a comprehensive plan for future flood control work over the whole city of Glendale was not acted upon, but carried over until a later date.
